Bad Poem

Chard: An Official Apocalypse Plant of Texas

Human: It's fucking hot here

Chard: I can dig it

Human: Seriously

Chard: Mellow out

Human:

Chard:

Human: I'll just snip a couple of stalks

Chard: Groovy

Sauteed Swiss Chard

- Swiss chard - a bunch or two
- Cooking fat
- Garlic, to taste
- Apple - 1 small or $\frac{1}{2}$ large
- Balsamic vinegar, to taste

1. Wash the chard
2. Chop the chard. Eat the stems, don't eat the stems
3. Heat a pan - add fat, example olive oil, bacon fat
4. Add chard, salt
5. After 8 minutes, add chopped garlic
6. After 3 minutes, add chopped apples
7. Add balsamic vinegar
8. After 30 seconds, eat
9. Develop a smug sense of self-satisfaction for eating something as healthy as chard

The Doctrine of Signatures

“Nature marks each growth...according to its curative benefit.”
Paracelsus

If the look of the plant indicates its benefit, what is chard's?

It kinda looks like veins.

Well, it does have lots of Vitamin K, which is necessary for your blood to clot. So maybe there's something to this “doctrine of signatures.”

How to help the bees

I ask myself, 'what can I do to help the bees?' There they go flitting in the air, sleeping in flowers, pollinating my harvest.

My best inspiration is to shepherd them. Build them a hive. Guard them as a she-bear does her cub.

Take back my bees. Take back my power.

because it's August, here are kittens
bubbles

Shameless plugs
